

Industrial Fluids

FM Approved industrial fluids listed here have been tested to evaluate fire hazard only. All will burn under certain conditions. In each case, the fire hazard has been reduced to an acceptable degree, meeting the criteria of FM Approvals when used in accordance with the conditions stipulated in FM Loss Prevention Standards. Other fluid properties have not been investigated.

When converting to an Approved industrial fluid, it is recommended that the manufacturer be requested to supply data pertinent to field experience covering the operating conditions under which the fluid will be used.
